The IHI Open School Turns Four!

It's been four years since the IHI Open School "opened its doors" in September of 2008. What began as a small idea has grown into a network of more than 100,000 health professions students, residents, and professionals.

Thank you for all your support, enthusiasm, and commitment during the last four years. We're excited to see what's in store for the future!

Victor Montori Interview On Shared Decision Making

In a two-part interview, the Mayo Clinic's Victor Montori explains the concept of shared decision making, describes some free innovative tools, and tells a touching story about an elderly patient.
