“Every year I am awed by the caliber of candidates who are nominated for this award. It’s a privilege to hear their stories and celebrate nursing’s collective contributions to safety, equity, and compassionate person-centered care,” said Patricia McGaffigan, RN, MS, CPPS, IHI Vice President and President, Certification Board for Professionals in Patient Safety. “IHI is honored to partner with the DAISY Foundation to recognize this year’s winners and the exemplary skill and commitment they demonstrate to patient and workforce safety every day.”

Team Award

Hemodialysis Team, South Texas Veterans Health Care System (STVHCS), Audie L. Murphy Memorial Veterans' Hospital, San Antonio, Texas

The STVHCS Hemodialysis Team has typified the VA Mission and VA Core Values through its work in the face of numerous recent challenges, including a winter storm that disrupted dialysis for more than 400 San Antonio patients, COVID-19 surges that resulted in unprecedented spikes in the number of hospitalized hemodialysis patients who required in-room dialysis treatments, and supply chain issues relating to critical dialysis equipment. Despite the tremendous hardship experienced in this region and by this staff, the Hemodialysis Team elevated its level of exemplary care to provide unwavering compassion and support to their patients, their patients' families, the nephrology department, and the San Antonio dialysis community.

"The Hemodialysis Team is a family that forms bonds between staff and patients. Not only do these nurses find ways to celebrate special moments in Veterans' lives, but they also partner with them to improve their experience in our organization" said Valerie Rodriguez-Yu, DNP, RN, NEA-BC, CENP, Associate Director Patient Care Services, South Texas Veterans Health Care System. "The Hemodialysis Team sets the bar, not only for STVHCS dialysis patients, but for others by demonstrating the extraordinary impact nurses have on Veteran safety and experience."

The STVHCS Hemodialysis Team, located at San Antonio's Audie L. Murphy Memorial Veterans' Hospital, serves America's Veterans by providing high quality patient care to 49 chronic dialysis Veterans, while also serving the Veteran population in the inpatient units. Each team member – including 16 nurses and 10 technicians – displays a commitment to ensuring their patients have a safe, timely, efficient, effective, and outstanding experience during their dialysis treatment.

Individual Award

Jeffrey Schultz, MSN, APRN, ANP-BC, CCNS, CCRN, UF Health Shands Hospital

As a flight nurse for the ShandsCair Critical Care Transport Team at UF Health Shands Hospital, Mr. Schultz provides emergent care to critical pre-hospital patients during air transport, requiring him to function at the full scope of his practice in extremely stressful situations. As part of a helicopter EMS program, patient safety is a top priority. Mr. Schultz has an exemplary safety record and helps the program maintain optimal patient outcomes.

"Jeffrey's effective communication, advanced clinical capabilities, and excellent interpersonal skills make him a role model for his peers and colleagues," said Irene Alexaitis, DNP, RN, NEA-BC, Vice President and Chief Nursing Officer, UF Health Shands Hospital. "He illustrates his dedication to continuous learning and professional practice through his attainment of multiple specialty certifications, further reflecting his commitment to excellence in caring for acute and critically ill patients."

In addition to his role as a direct care flight nurse, Mr. Shultz practices as an acute care nurse practitioner, specializing in critical care management of cardiovascular ICU patients. His career is centered around evidenced-based education, increasing patient safety and advancing compassionate nursing practice. His colleagues credit him with consistently lifting up his teammates through clinical and personal mentorship while asking for nothing in return. He embodies compassion for others and is the definition of reliable.

The DAISY Award® for Extraordinary Nurses in Patient Safety is supported by a generous grant from Baxter, a global provider of clinical technology and patient safety solutions.
